“ How should we remember Betty Ackerman?

A supermom- Who could handle all the PTA meetings, cleaning, parenting, shopping, cooking every meal, and still have time to sit down and tell you family stories over a card game.

Happy- She seemed to always have a smile on her face, even when she had to force it, she would do whatever she could to make someone else smile. Always look at the bright side.

Collector- That perfect lamp, chair, or piece of wall art. Once she found a special piece of furniture, jewelry, or crystal it would speak to her, she would bring it home and keep it close to her forever.

Goofy- Silly jokes and small pranks were part of her everyday routine. Even just a simple one liner, you always knew she had something up her sleeve.

Compassionate- She loved her family/ friends dearly. Whenever you needed a shoulder to cry on, an ear to listen, or advice in a sticky situation, she know exactly what to say and what you need to hear.

Glamorous- Always with hair done completely, an outfit that was planned to the "T", a sun kissed tan with makeup perfectly applied, never to leave home without a necklace and ear rings to complete her look.

Celebratory- A birthday party, wedding, birth of a baby, or a holiday, she loved to have a reason to celebrate life. Fireworks are something that always captivated her, the magic in the sky was like the sparkle she always had in her eyes.

Loving- Her love brought so many wonderful children/ grandchildren into this world. They were her everything. She helped to teach everyone how to succeed, push yourself, treat others, and above all care for/ love everyone.

Matriarch- Wife, mama, grandma, great grandma. She was the keystone of the family, everyone looked to her for strength and guidance.

Never judge a book by its cover. Her health suffered greatly over the last 25 years, but at her core she was still all of these things. Many of your main qualities may have faded over the years, but we love you the same now as we did when you were at your prime.

Your family loves you mom. We miss you more than you know, but you are in our hearts now and everyday, until we meet again.
