“ I remember visiting Aunt Beulah and Uncle Ted when we would come to visit Grandma. We spent lovely summer evenings out on Uncle Ted's pontoon boat in the quarry, and I had a wonderful time playing with my cousins, Skip's kids, at the old farmhouse across the road. Aunt Beulah watched my brother and me during the days when Grandma was in her final illness, grey winter days when my cousins were at school and Mom and Dad were at the hospital.

Recently, as Aunt Beulah cleaned out her things, she sent me some Galloway family memorabilia, including newspaper clippings about her sister Arlene's time in Washington DC (Grandma appeared in an article about research at Walter Reed, where she worked) and photos of my grandparents. I treasure them, and I am so grateful that she thought to send them to me.

I will miss Aunt Beulah. The people who were our links to the old times are slipping away. My thoughts and prayers are with Aunt Beulah's children and with Aunt Evelyn. We wish we could be there for her services.

Love,

Susan
