“ *I worked with Mr. Wells at Central School from 1973 until he retired. He was a very quiet and gentle man who never had an unkind word for anyone. He was always willing to lend me a hand when I needed some help. I had often asked his sister, Viola, about him when she worked at Central. I saw that his house had been razed recently and wondered about him again. I extend to you my deepest sympathy. Please know that he and you will be in my prayers. **
