“ I have many wonderful memories of all of the time I spent in the Noble household, which became a second home to me. There was always music - piano solos and duets, singing and fantastic guitar playing. And there was the watching of "soaps" in the kitchen punctuated by lively conversation during the commercials while watching Dorothy and Grandma Smith fastidiously sprinkle freshly washed and dried clothes in preparation for ironing. The smell of wonderful meals being cooked and the anticipation of diving into Dorothy's freshly baked, delicious pies, cakes and cookies, sometimes accompanied by ice cream, homemade on the back porch. There were many summer evening conversations while sitting out on the front porch and then there were the hours and hours of time spent making beautiful, handcrafted Christmas ornaments sitting around the kitchen table. I will cherish those memories throughout the rest of my life and I will not be able to help but smile when I think of Dorothy and the ever present smile on her face so much like the one shown here in her picture.
