“ My mother, Barbara Jane Mills, age 101, and I, both of Dixon extend our heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Cramer's family. My mother remembers growing up near her on the north side of Dixon and bumping into her as the years progressed. I cringe when I hear people say "Well, he or she was in her 90s" Age doesn't matter and each year achieved makes a person so much more valuable. It does nothing to destroy the sense of loss. Living that long is a blessing though and should be celebrated; that's true. I hope you have the strength to do that as you continue in this world. Remember you're not alone. Andrea and Jane Mills (Arthur Mills' widow), Dixon.
